

McKay's Week-At-A-Glance (WAAG): June 24th - June 28th

Hello McKay Families!

The energy at the school has been high as our students anticipate summer break just around the corner! The weather has been hot, and classes have been spending lots of time outside- so be sure to apply sunscreen to your children each morning, and send them to school with a hat.

Friday was National Indigenous Peoples Day, and we were excited to celebrate the day with a special Pow Wow dance performance by Peter White, a Knowledge Keeper of Ktunaxa First Nation. There are many ways to celebrate Indigenous excellence year round in our community and around Metro Vancouver... and this is something that we aim to do in our school community year round as well, as we work towards Reconciliation.

In the week ahead we will prepare to say "Farewell!" to our grade seven students, families who are leaving our community, and a few staff members that are heading off to new opportunities as well. Families, we thank you all for being partners in your child's learning journey this year... and look forward to these last four days with students before a summer reset for us all.
